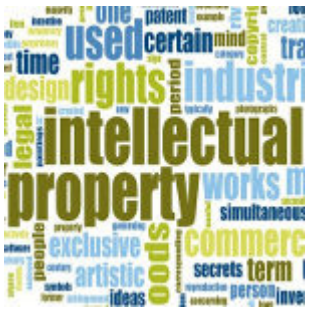
Pre-Litigation Due Diligence: Is Your House in Order?



Finnegan, Henderson, Farabow, Garrett & Dunner presents a free on-demand webinar on the importance of adequate preparation in patent infringement litigation.

Advanced preparation and strategic planning among business leaders, technical and regulatory personnel, inside counsel, and outside counsel can be essential to position your company for a successful outcome, the firm says on its website.

Webinar topics include:

• Using best practices to obtain patent claims that maximize your chances of proving patent infringement and defending against patentability challenges;
• Investigating the potential issues, important documents, and major players that will provide key information during discovery and at trial;
• Developing litigation themes to ensure that the litigation proceeds on the correct path;
• Coordinating company communications to ensure that representations are accurate and consistent with the company's litigation positions; and
• Using proceedings at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office to strengthen your portfolio or to avoid potentially expensive and disruptive litigation.
