

Predicine Appoints Clint Webb as New General Counsel to Support Its International Expansion

“Predicine, a global molecular insights company, announced today that it has appointed Clint Webb as its new General Counsel (GC). This is the most recent of several executive appointments aimed at supporting Predicine’s international expansion and further developing its industry-leading liquid,” reports PR Newswire in their blog.

“Clint is an experienced General Counsel specializing in advising high-growth diagnostic, biotech and device companies. Prior to this role, he was Head of Legal at Visby Medical, a diagnostics company that developed the world’s first instrument-free, palm-sized, single-use PCR platform. Clint started his legal career at Morrison,”
