

Quarles & Brady Moves Washington, D.C. Office Location

Quarles & Brady LLP has announced that the firm's Washington, D.C. office has a new location. The firm is now located at 1701 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Suite 700, Washington, D.C. 20006.

"Our expansion and relocation allows us to better execute on the firm's strategic goal of enhancing our presence in the D.C. market," said Larry Cote, Washington, D.C. office managing partner. "The design of our new office maximizes the efficient use of space through same-sized offices and several collaborative work areas, which encourages teamwork, assists in recruiting top talent, and greatly supports our efforts to provide exceptional service to our clients."

In a release, the firm said:

The space, designed by Chemistry in PlaceSM, focuses on flexibility, collaboration, and client service. The office will house a permanent collection of photographic images of Washington, D.C. taken by students from the Corcoran School of the Arts & Design at George Washington University. The new office also showcases the latest innovative products in furniture and floor covering from Steelcase and Milliken.

"This new office space is perfect for what we need moving into the future," said Kelly Williams, Washington, D.C. office manager. "1701 Pennsylvania gives us the opportunity to expand, and we are looking forward to adding additional members to our D.C. office."

The office will retain its existing phone and fax numbers. The firm occupies suite 700, located on the seventh floor of the building. To learn more about 1701 Pennsylvania Avenue,
