Cameron Robinson Appointed to IAPP Young Privacy Professionals Board

Cameron E. Robinson, associate in Quarles & Brady

The national law firm of Quarles & Brady LLP has announced that Cameron Robinson has been appointed to the IAPP Young Privacy Professionals Board.

The IAPP is a resource for professionals who want to develop and advance their careers by helping their organizations successfully manage risks and protect their data. They are the world's largest and most comprehensive global information privacy community.

Robinson is a member of the firm's Intellectual Property Practice Group and practices out of the Chicago office. He focuses his practice on software and technology, data privacy and e-commerce, as well as counseling clients on trademarks, copyrights and IT outsourcing.

Robinson received his law degree, cum laude, from Indiana University's Maurer School of Law and his bachelor's degree from Indiana University.

About Quarles & Brady LLP

Quarles & Brady is a full-service law firm with more than 475 attorneys offering an array of legal services to corporate and individual clients that range from small entrepreneurial businesses to Fortune 100 companies, with practice focuses in health care and life sciences, business law, data privacy and security, and complex litigation. The firm has offices in Chicago; Indianapolis; Madison; Milwaukee; Naples, Florida; Phoenix; Scottsdale; Tampa; Tucson; and Washington, D.C. Additional information can be found online at quarles.com, as well as on Twitter, LinkedIn, and Facebook.