

Rams Coach Sean McVay and GM Les Snead to Get Contract Extensions

“Matthew Stafford, Aaron Donald and Cooper Kupp are not the only members of the Rams parlaying Super Bowl-winning performances into new contracts. Coach Sean McVay and general manager Les Snead will receive extensions, chief operating officer Kevin Demoff said Tuesday at the NFL,” reports Gary Klein in Los Angeles Times.

“Snead and McVay received extensions after the Rams lost to the New England Patriots in Super Bowl LIII at the end of the 2018 season. They have two years remaining on those deals. They have an amazing working relationship, Demoff said. You’d be foolish, when you look at how hard it is in this league to win, not to try to keep together.”
