

Redbank Settles Contracts with Teachers and Support Professionals

“After nearly three years without a contract, hundreds of hours of negotiating, a teachers’ strike and the intervention of an arbiter, an agreement has been reached for teachers and professional support staff in the Redbank Valley School District. Following a lengthy executive session, the nine,” reports Evanne Gareis in The Courier Express.

“School board unanimously approved the Act 88 Arbitration Determination issued by the Board of Arbitration for the Redbank Valley Education Association RVEA, as well as a tentative agreement between the district and the Redbank Valley Educational Support Professionals RVESP during a special meeting called prior to Tuesday night.”

Read the article.