

Rumble Announces Michael Ellis as General Counsel

“Today, the video platform Rumble announced that it has hired Michael Ellis as General Counsel and Corporate Secretary. Ellis formerly served in senior legal and policy roles in the Intelligence Community, White House, and Congress. Rumble is already one of the most respected independent and,” reports PR Newswire in their blog

“Michael is a battle-tested lawyer who understands the inner workings of government at the highest levels, said Rumble CEO Chris Pavlovski. His experience at the intersection of technology and law, combined with his maturity of judgment, will serve Rumble well on a wide variety of legal, compliance, and government affairs matters.”

Read the article.