

Shutterstock Hires General Counsel

Shutterstock announced John Lapham is joining as General Counsel, posts Shutterstock in their Press and Media.

“With a career spanning over two decades, John has extensive legal experience, and is regarded as an industry leader for providing strategic and legal support for media and technology companies, creative industries, and online marketplaces. As Shutterstock’s General Counsel, John will be responsible for leading all aspects of Shutterstock’s global legal strategy, working closely with the Senior Leadership Team and the Board of Directors as a strategic advisor on legal and business issues, as well as managing risk throughout the organization. John will also oversee the legal support of Shutterstock’s growth and business transformation.”

Read the article.