

Stephanie Sarantopoulos Named Littler onDemand Program Director

Littler, the world's largest employment and labor law practice representing management, is pleased to announce that Stephanie Sarantopoulos, a shareholder in the firm's Minneapolis office, has been named Program Director of its award-winning Littler onDemand (LoD) platform.

In this role, Sarantopoulos will oversee the legal operations of LoD and help implement new services and products. She will also manage and grow the team of Littler onDemand Counsel – a dedicated role within the platform held by experienced employment-law practitioners who are on call to answer workplace questions.

Launched in 2019, LoD is a technology-based platform that provides companies with quick, consistent and thorough answers to workplace legal questions, as well as data-driven insights to identify trends, manage risk and drive stronger business decisions. The platform houses all of a client's inquiries, creating a knowledge bank that stays with the company in perpetuity and that can be drawn upon to reduce time spent answering duplicative questions. To date, more than 1,500 clients have used LoD and the firm has answered over 6,000 questions via the platform.

The LoD platform and Forman's innovative leadership, have led to numerous awards from organizations that recognize innovation in the legal industry, including most recently winning the "Digitising the Practice of Law" award in the Financial Times 2020 North America Innovative Lawyers report.
