

Striking Kellogg Workers Reject Contract Proposal

“Over 1,400 striking hourly employees across four Kellogg cereal plants rejected the company’s tentative agreement for a five-year contract during negotiations between Kellogg and the Bakery, Confectionery, Tobacco Workers and Grain Millers International Union BCTGM, according to a press release from,” reports Maureen Breslin in The Hill.

“Speaking about the vote, BCTGM International President Anthony Shelton stated, according to the union’s release, The members have spoken. The strike continues. The International Union will continue to provide full support to our striking Kellogg’s members. Meanwhile, Kellogg North America President Chris Hood has said of the recent.”

Read the article.