

Succeeding with an Unbundled Claims Management Approach

✖ Risk & Insurance magazine has posted a free on-demand webinar on unbundling workers' compensation managed care services can make a lot of sense for some employers.

Meeting the demands of a changing environment is a constant challenge whether you are – considering unbundling – have recently unbundled – or want to gauge the effectiveness of your unbundled program, the magazine says on its website.

Limited risk management resources, the complexities of data management and transparency, and increased medical costs are combining to push claims executives to improve their approach. Not doing so is to risk bad outcomes, not only for injured workers but for corporate bottom lines.
