

Dual Language China Contracts: Don't Get Fooled

Insight

No matter what the English language portion of your contract says, it behooves you to know exactly what the Chinese language portion says as well, writes Dan Harris.

China Employee Non-Competes: Does Yours Have Real Teeth?

Insight

Chinese courts do not automatically side with the employee; those rare employers that have done things the right way actually usually win, writes Grace Yang in China Law Blog.

Why Your NDA Does Not Work For China

White Article

A contract with Chinese companies must make clear that whether the information provided is a secret or not, the Chinese factory agrees not to use the information in competition with you.