

Tammy Westerberg Joins Foley as Business Litigation Partner in Denver

Foley & Lardner LLP announced today that Tamara “Tammy” Westerberg has joined the firm’s Litigation Department and Business Litigation & Dispute Resolution Practice Group as a partner in the Denver office.

Westerberg brings significant experience representing clients in all aspects of sophisticated and complex commercial litigation, with a particular emphasis on navigating disputes in the Colorado market. She represents clients in high-stakes contractual disputes as well as competition-related issues, business ownership disputes, consumer fraud, employment conflicts, investigations, professional liability, oil and gas and energy transition litigation, and other business tort claims.

“Tammy is a critical addition to Foley’s Denver team and will play a significant role in driving synergies with our fast-growing national business litigation group,” said Emily Weber, managing partner of Foley’s Denver office. “Tammy’s reputation as a premier trial lawyer will help us continue to attract additional top talent in Denver and increase Foley’s presence in the state.”

“Tammy’s demonstrated success as a trial lawyer and her diverse skill set will serve our clients across several of the firm’s key markets and sectors,” said Mike Gay, chair of the firm’s Litigation Department and the Business Litigation & Dispute Resolution Practice. “She is known for her aptitude as a trial lawyer and will make a great addition to our trial practice at Foley.”

“Foley offers a significant platform for trial work and a cross-office collaborative culture that will greatly value my clients and allow me to further expand my practice,” said

Westerberg. "I'm excited to join Foley's growing Denver office and look forward to contributing to the firm's success here and across the country."