The Latest Food Regulatory Updates in Australia and Internationally

FoodLegal, an online publication of Australian Lawyers & Consultants, publishes a roundup of current developments in food law and policy, both Australian and international.

Some of the headings include Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) news, Food Standards Australia New Zealand (FSANZ) news, food-related news and policy on the European Union, the United States and Asia.

Founded in 1986 by managing principal Joe Lederman, the firm developed the FoodLegal division in the mid-1990s as the leading food regulatory specialist offering services in food law, regulatory compliance, education and training, the firm says on its website. With its principal Australian offices located near the heart of the Melbourne Central Business District, FoodLegal advises organizations of all types and sizes from all around the world and throughout Australia. Its clientele includes some of Australia's most well-known food companies, health and nutrition groups, government agencies, industry bodies, manufacturers and start-ups and many food importers and exporters.
