

Theodore Sullivan Joins Quarles & Brady's Health & Life Sciences Practice Group

Theodore M. Sullivan has joined Quarles & Brady LLP's Washington, D.C. office as a partner in its Health & Life Sciences Practice Group.

Sullivan counsels and advises clients on Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations and matters related to over-the-counter drug regulation, drug exclusivity issues, food and dietary supplement labeling and advertising, and import detention of FDA-regulated products. He has worked closely with clients in guiding new drugs and medical devices through the FDA's approval processes, and has assisted clients resolving conflicts with the agency regarding approved products.

He received his law degree, with honors, from Chicago-Kent College of Law and his bachelor's degree from George Mason University.
