

These 7 Larger Law Firms Got the $10M Maximum in Coronavirus Pandemic Loans

“When the government offered forgivable loans to keep businesses afloat and workers on the payroll during the novel coronavirus pandemic, dozens of larger law firms received the money,” reports Debra Cassens Weiss in ABA Journal’s News.

“Now, the U.S. Small Business Administration has released more details on the loans as a result of a federal judge’s order, including the loan amounts.”

“...seven of the nation’s 200 top-grossing law firms received the maximum $10 million loan in the paycheck protection program.”
