

Thompson & Knight Adds Finance Partner to Houston Office

The law firm of Thompson & Knight LLP announced that George Humphrey has joined the firm's Houston office as a partner in the Finance Practice Group.

The firm said Humphrey's practice focuses on U.S. and international project finance and development and mergers and acquisitions, particularly in the energy industry. He has overseen the development, financing, and closing of billions of dollars in energy projects. His ongoing work includes advising on an EPC contract and project financing for a petrochemical facility, a power purchase agreement for a Texas solar facility, and an energy scheduling agreement for a Mexican renewable project. His prior work includes helping a client sell its South American renewable business, including operating wind and solar projects, and the refinancing of project debt following the commercial operation of a methanol facility.

Humphrey has been named a Recommended Attorney in The Legal 500 US by Legalease in the Renewable and Alternative Energy category (2019) and listed as a Notable Practitioner for banking & finance, energy, project development, and project finance by IFLR1000 (2019). Humphrey has also been recognized by Euromoney's Expert Guides as one of the world's leading practitioners chosen by their peers in energy (2018).

Humphrey received his J.D. from the University of Florida's Fredric G. Levin College of Law and B.A., with honors, also from the University of Florida. Immediately prior to joining the firm, Humphrey was a partner at Orrick, Herrington & Sutcliffe.
