

Time to Review Your (and Your Suppliers') Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Plans

"Business continuity and disaster recovery (BC/DR) plans are an essential element of your and your suppliers' business—an increasingly apparent fact as we now face the uncertainty caused by COVID-19. Your agreements with suppliers and service providers likely account for exigent circumstances via force majeure and BC/DR provisions, and reviewing and updating those contingencies now is imperative. The following steps will help you critically review how the BC/DR plans supporting your organization plan for COVID-19," advises Aaron M. Oser, John L. Barton and Mia Render in Pillsbury's Alert.

Read the four steps you should be taking.

Read the article.