

Ukraine War Highlights Need for Energy Independence, Energy Experts Running for Congress Warn

“Two Republican congressional candidates with extensive experience in energy faulted the Biden administration for weakening the United States’ energy independence and warned that Russia’s invasion of Ukraine highlights the importance of America’s energy independence. We’re seeing now that energy,” reports Tyler O’Neil in Fox News.

“Alexis Martinez Johnson, an environmental engineer and Republican candidate for New Mexico’s 3rd Congressional District, told Fox News Digital. We need to be producing natural gas and oil, as an exporter, not only to ensure low energy costs at home, but also to keep our allies from being beholden to Russia. Europe has become.”
