

UNG Names General Counsel

“University of North Georgia President Bonita Jacobs has announced Reggie Lampkin as the new university general counsel, effective Jan. 1,” reports Sylvia Carson of UNG in WGAU Radio’s Local News.

“He brings varied experience to the role of general counsel, including litigation, compliance with federal educational laws, contract review, licensing and intellectual property rights agreements, and personnel and policy matters.”

“Lampkin joins UNG from the Georgia Department of Education, where he has served as the lead attorney for finance and business administration since 2014. In addition, from 2012 to 2014 he served as assistant legal counsel for Kennesaw State University supporting the areas of student affairs, athletics and contracts and assisting with employee matters.”

Read the article.