

Watch Now Baby Doe Lawsuit Ends in $35 Million Settlement

“The case has taken more than four years, but the Sullivan Baby Doe opioid lawsuit has reached a settlement to the tune of $35 million. Plaintiffs and the sole remaining defendant reached a settlement agreement on Tuesday, with the announcement on Thursday at the Sullivan County Courthouse,” reports Marina Waters in Times News.

“The agreement is the largest any plaintiffs have reached with opioid producers Endo Health Solutions Inc. and Endo Pharmaceuticals. I’m pleased to have this resolved, said J. Gerard Stranch IV, the managing partner of the firm representing Baby Doe and the participating cities and counties in the case.”

Read the article.