What Should be in Every Construction Agreement

Parties to a construction project can have a better agreement by addressing six topics described in a post in The Lien Zone blog.

Alex Barthet, author of the post, advises contract drafters to define the scope of the work that will be provided, list all the exclusions, explain the change order process, verify the schedule, refine the dispute resolution procedure, and make sure the winner gets legal fees.

Read the article.