

Wisconsin Man Receives $1.25M Settlement for Foot Injury at 2019 U.S. Bank Stadium Concert

“U.S. Bank Stadium officials have signed off on their share of a $1.25 million settlement with a Wisconsin man whose foot was injured outside a stadium gate at a Garth Brooks concert nearly three years ago. Tom and Diana Ugoretz of Marshfield, Wis., said a large steel hydraulic wedge-shaped barrier,” reports Rochelle Olson in Star Tribune.

“The couple sued the Minnesota Sports Facilities Authority (MSFA), which owns and oversees the stadium on behalf of the public, along with the stadium’s operator, builders and security personnel including a Minneapolis police officer. The suit says that the couple sought more than $50,000, standard for Minnesota a personal injury cases.”

Read the article.