

Work and Worship: Religion in the Workplace

Ballard Spahr
LLP

Ballard Spahr presents a complimentary on-demand webinar on dealing with employment issues involving workers' religious beliefs.

On its website, the firm says that the fact that employees hold diverse religious beliefs has long been a given for employers. But what happens when religious beliefs and practices affect employee behavior at work, or conflict with employer practices and policies?

This webinar reviews the various regulations governing religious expression in the workplace and discusses recent cases addressing issues such as reasonable religious accommodations, dress codes, and the Affordable Care Act contraceptive mandate.
