

World Anti-Doping Agency Appoints Wenzel as General Counsel

“Wenzel was a partner at Swiss law firm Kellerhals Carrard where he acted as WADA’s external legal counsel for over a decade before his departure at the end of 2021. During his 11-year stint at Kellerhals Carrard, Wenzel handled hundreds of doping-related cases before the Court of Arbitration for,” reports Geoff Berkeley in Inside The Games.

“Sport for WADA and other anti-doping organisations, including International Federations and National Anti-Doping Organisations. Wenzel is now set to form part of WADA’s leadership team as general counsel and as part of the office of the director general based in Lausanne in Switzerland. WADA says Wenzel will have overarching.”

Read the article.